Westlaw: quick start guide

Westlaw contains law reports, legislation, journals and some commentary material. It covers some law reports which are not in Lexis, and is particularly useful for searching for journal articles. Not all articles are available in full text, but many can be accessed through the Library.

Getting started

- 1. Go to the Library homepage at http://library.leeds.ac.uk or to the Learn tab in Minerva.
- 2. Type Westlaw into the Library search box.
- 3. Select Westlaw at the top of the screen. Enter your University username and password if prompted.
- 4. You should now see the main search screen in Westlaw.

Understanding and refining your results

Text in blue is a link to the full text (if available) or other background information.

For cases, select Case Analysis for background information (e.g. other cases cited in this one), or click on the citation for the full text of the case.

For journal articles, you will see a link that says Full Text Available, or a link to the abstract. Note: If you can't get the full article in Westlaw, try typing the journal title into Library Search. If the Library has the journal, check that the year/volume you need is available. If it is, enter the online version of the journal and search for the article title.
